EVENTS IN THE EAST.

Senator Miller of California, Interviewed in New York on Political Matters.

THE RECENT ELECTRIC STORM.

Stanford Rents Vanderbilt's Old Residence in New York—Wealth of New Mexico—Rumors about the Northern Pacific.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Senator [illegible] Miller, of California, in conversation with a reporter regarding the political situation of his state, said: "I have just returned from the Pacific coast, having come east to remain until the opening of congress. As to the situation, we practically have none out there. It is true that the democrats have been successful in the late election, but it is [illegible] in the late election, but [illegible]. The success of either party in the next presidential campaign depends entirely upon what happens between this and 1884."

"What were the local issues?"

"During the late campaign the prohibition one was the only one of importance. The republicans had a plank in their platform upholding the observance of Sunday and preventing the sale of liquor on that day. This frightened the liquor people, dealers and consumers, and they, combined with the wine-making interest, proved too powerful for the republicans."

"What is, then, the general condition of the people of California?"

"A feeling of satisfaction exists at present. The crops have been very large and the quality is good, although small prices are being realized, the wheat is going away very rapidly, which is better than to have it on hand unsold."

Extent of the Electric Storm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The electric storm yesterday extended from Boston as far west as Ogden and yesterday its influence was still felt in certain localities so that telegraphic communication was considerably interrupted. Various experiments were made by telegraphers during the prevalence of the storm to work the wires and dispose of the great accumulation of business, but with little success, until it was discovered that by taking two wires from the ground from between two given points and joining their ends a circuit was formed that could be opened. In this way eight wires between Buffalo and Chicago were made to do the service of four. Electricians seem to agree that the disturbance was unlike any heretofore experienced, as it appeared to act upon the wires in strong waves, causing constant changing of polarity of currents.

THE AURORA.

Reports from Omaha state the aurora was very brilliant at that point, the illumination being almost as bright as day. At St. Paul it is reported the same as being blood red in color, the display being [illegible]. The great storm extended as far west as Ogden and east to Boston. Cheyenne reports illumination at that point as bright as day.

The Wealthiest Territory.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Governor Sheldon of New Mexico, in an interview, said he believed New Mexico the wealthiest as regards minerals of all the territories, and for fruits and vegetables it was unexcelled. Under the new order of things [illegible] and that immigration was pouring in steadily. Churches were springing up, railroad communication was being rapidly developed and people were growing prosperous and contented.

A Profitable Investment.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—As the charter of the First National bank of Chicago will expire in February, it is understood the stockholders have already taken steps to organize the National bank of America and continue business with the new year with a capital of $1,000,000. The present stockholders are to receive new shares for five times account of the surplus and $400,000 in new stock will be sold at $145, the premium to constitute a new surplus.

Heirs to an Immense Fortune.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Thomas Layman, 13 years of age, a cash boy in Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s establishment, with his sister and brother, have by the death of their uncle, Michael Layman, a broker in Melbourne, Australia, fallen heir to his entire fortune, amounting to $2,000,000. The children, who have no parents, will leave for St. John, N. B., where they will be educated.

Suits against Insurance Companies.

[illegible], Nov. 9.—Under the law requiring insurance companies doing business in this state to file statements of assets and liabilities with and make reports to the state auditor, the state's attorney has begun suits against leading underwriters [illegible], the aggregate penalties of which will [illegible] half a million dollars with more to [illegible].

Stanford's New York Residence.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Ex-Governor Stanford of California has leased Wm. H. Vanderbilt's old residence, Fifth avenue, near Forty-third street, for one year. The rent is $2000 monthly. An evening paper says Stanford will signalize his advent by a series of brilliant receptions and entertainments during the winter.

Perished of Yellow Fever.

[illegible], Nov. 19.—The Italian bark Caterina, from [illegible] Greenock, has arrived in quarantine. The whole crew excepting the captain, mate, [illegible] died of yellow fever at Pensacola, [illegible] the vessel was a day out from port the [illegible] cook died of the same disease.

[illegible] Killed by Indians.

[illegible], Nov. 19.—The News' El Paso special [illegible] comes to-night of the killing of [illegible] by Indians at Carletas, Mexico, a [illegible]. Troops were sent after the Indians.

RAILWAY NEWS.

Northern Pacific Preferred Stock.

[illegible], Nov. 19.—It was reported in Wall street [illegible] of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company [illegible] control the Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway & Navigation Companies, had arranged [illegible] the Northern Pacific preferred stock which [illegible] lands belonging to that company. [illegible] of organization preferred stock was [illegible] at par into lands of the company [illegible] it was to be cancelled. The [illegible] by officers of both companies, [illegible] such action had been contemplated [illegible]. They said certain English [illegible] capitalists had been talking about [illegible] million acres of Northern Pacific [illegible] negotiations had not been completed [illegible] probably be for some time. President [illegible] suggested that if the negotiations were [illegible] the buyers would be anxious to pay for [illegible] Northern Pacific preferred stock, so as to do [illegible] to their advantage.

The New U. P. Bonds.

[illegible], Nov. 19.—The amount of new 5 per cent. [illegible] of the Union Pacific railway [illegible] yesterday. Reports place it at [illegible] $5,000,000 while the facts are [illegible]. Blake Bros. & Co. took a round [illegible] less than $2,000,000 and wanted [illegible] the company did not need the money [illegible] given the option for a second [illegible] being sufficient to cancel the [illegible] floating debt, which is [illegible] in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 [illegible] and available assets as the company [illegible] inclined to dispose of. This debt is [illegible] by time loans from Boston [illegible] and will be paid as they mature. [illegible] of the amount is held in New [illegible] bonds go to Amsterdam where the [illegible] of six per cent. collateral of this [illegible] held.

FORT PILLOW CHALMERS.

His Dispatch of "Beast Butler" the Other Day, Precedes a Legal Technicality [illegible] Deprives Him of Election.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 19.—[illegible] in the election matter of Chalmers and Manning, [illegible] Mississippi district, secretary of State Myers yesterday [illegible]. The contest [illegible] Manning [illegible] Chalmers [illegible] A certificate from the county board of commissioners of election [illegible] that Van H. Manning had received [illegible] and J. R. Chambless [illegible] tally sheets [illegible] was a tally sheet [illegible].

[illegible] 1472 votes. This tally sheet was [illegible] and was not officially signed. Mr. Myers held that the tally sheet was better evidence of the intention of the commissioners [illegible]. It was claimed by General Chalmers that if this was true and the tally sheet was necessary, the votes of Tippah, Union and [illegible] counties should be thrown out, as there was none enclosed, which would still give him a majority. The secretary of state holds differently, giving the 172 votes of Tate county to J. R. Chambless and none to Chalmers, and substituting the returns in other counties. The vote officially announced stands as follows: Manning 8762, Chalmers 8257, Chambless 1472, Carter 120; Manning's plurality over Chalmers, 495. General Chalmers sued out an injunction from the circuit court enjoining Secretary of State Myers from giving a certificate of election to Manning; also a mandamus from the same court, both of which were disregarded. He will at once enter upon a vigorous contest. Proof was offered, but not admitted, that there was no such candidate as "J. R. Chambless." It is the opinion of the bar here, and other prominent election lawyers, that the decision of the secretary of state is correct and that the circuit judge's interference was without the authority of law.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Legislative Matters in the French Chamber of Deputies and the Prussian Diet—Queen Victoria Reviews the English Troops, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PARIS, Nov. 19.—In the chamber of deputies [illegible]clerc, president of the council, read a bill ratifying de Brazza's Congo treaty. The bill was received with applause and urgency declared for it. A committee to consider the bill will be appointed on Monday.

Mazzi, radical, introduced a bill and demanded its urgency for the proposed temporary liberty of the imprisoned rioters from Montceau-les-Mines, and the government opposed. The demand for urgency was defeated—384 to 96.

[illegible] brought forward the interpellation, his notice of which had caused considerable sensation, accusing De Freycinet, late president of the council, of having, when in office, illegally allotted 500,000 francs to the Bishop of Algiers, a motion to grant that amount being rejected by the chambers. Minister Fallières explained that the allotment was in payment of an advance by the archbishop, who had patriotically voted for French influence in Tunis at a critical period.

Order of the day pure and simple was moved by the ministry and the motion adopted—314 to 175.

The Prussian Diet.

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Herr Scholz, Prussian minister of finance, made a budget statement in the diet yesterday. There is a deficit which will be met by a loan of 31,000,000 marks. The decrease in revenue, due to the abolition of the lowest grades of class tax, will be made up by a license tax on the sale of liquors and tobacco. The abolition on the above mentioned grades meets with approval, but the means proposed for covering the deficiency will probably be rejected. National liberals are framing a counter proposal. A split in the progressist party is expected in consequence of a disagreement between Herr Hanel and Herr Richter. The latter and Prof. Virchow are absent from parliamentary duties on the plea of ill health.

Troops Reviewed by the Queen.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The queen reviewed 8000 of the troops which took part in the Egyptian campaign. The duke of Connaught headed a brigade of foot guards, who were received by the queen in front of Buckingham palace.

At the review the queen presented war medals to two representatives of each regiment. A general presentation of medals will take place at Windsor Tuesday.

Will Not Prevail.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The News states there is very slight probability that York's motion for a committee to inquire into the circumstances under which Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly were released from Kilmainham jail will prevail, although Gladstone has expressed a desire that it be not opposed.

The Joyce Murders.

DUBLIN, Nov. 19.—Miles Joyce, who, for the murder of Mrs. Joyce, was convicted and sentenced to death, was the first cousin of the man Joyce who was murdered.

Mechanics Arrested.

VIENNA, Nov. 19.—The police at Hamburg have made a domiciliary visit and arrested six mechanics. They also seized a large number of socialist pamphlets and explosive bullets.

Doubt the Sincerity.

MADRID, Nov. 19.—The union of Senor Montos and his followers with Marshal Serrano's party is the principal theme of discussion by the press. The ministerial papers affect to doubt the sincerity of the conversion.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

A Vendetta in the Mountains.

FRESNO, Nov. 19.—Last night messengers came from the mountains and reported the killing of Henry LeFevre by J. S. G. Musick and J. L. Musick. The report is that Musick and his son stopped at the log cabin of A. H. Akers yesterday at noon, in White Deer valley, and were invited to stop and take dinner. While at dinner Henry, a son of A. J. LeFevre, rode up. Seeing him the Musicks got up from the table and seized their weapons and ran out of the back door. In a few seconds a shot was heard and when Mr. Akers went out he found young LeFevre lying on the ground dead. In the meantime the Musicks had departed. For a long time trouble has existed between the Musicks and the LaFevres. Last year the old man Musick was shot, he claimed, in the back by young LaFevre; but on the trial the elder LaFevre claimed that he did the shooting and that he did it in self-defense. The quarrel grew out of the possession of a piece of land. It is reported that the elder LaFevre is killed or missing, his horse having been found riderless in the mountains. Of this no authentic information has been obtained.

NEVADA.

A Newspaper Libel.

EUREKA, Nov. 19.—In behalf of George J. Beck, who shot and killed [illegible] in a street fight on the 4th inst., [illegible] E. Anderson, of electoral commission notoriety, a suit for libel has been instituted against the Territorial Enterprise, published at Virginia City. Damages are laid at $25,000. Beck had a preliminary examination and was exonerated on the ground that the killing was done in self defense. It is alleged the Enterprise, in reviewing the testimony, used libelous language.

Indian Chief's Son Killed.

WALLA WALLA, Nov. 19.—Friday evening as William Masterson of Colfax was riding on horseback near Dry creek, a few miles from Walla Walla, he was met by three Indians who first asked him for matches. On being told he had none they asked for tobacco and this being also refused they demanded money, using vile language and taking hold of his horse's bridle raised their whips to strike him. Thinking his life in danger he drew his pistol and fired. The shot frightened his horse, which galloped off with him. Ed Holt was of the party and they all returned to the scene of attack and found two Indians bending over the body of a dead Indian, who turned out to be a son of Chief Lolo, who lives on Snake river at Palouse Ferry. The dead body was brought to town this morning when it was found that the bullet struck the left side in a direct line with the heart. An inquest will be held to-night.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A New and Vast Enterprise.

VICTORIA, Nov. 19.—Preliminary steps were taken yesterday for the formation in this city of a joint stock steamboat company, with a cash capital of $250,000. The company propose to acquire the boats of the Hudson Bay company and Pioneer line, and to construct two magnificent iron propellers with a speed of 18 knots an hour for the route between Victoria and Puget Sound and New Westminster, [illegible] and for the island and mainland coast trade. NO REDUCTION IN PATENT FEES.

Our Ladies Providing Comfortable Houses for Those of their Sex who Visit the [illegible] Fair—General Matters.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Secretary Teller has decided the case of [illegible] [illegible] considerable land tracts in [illegible] [illegible] was concealed.

No Reduction of Patents.

Secretary Teller will not in his annual report recommend a reduction in the cost of obtaining a patent. He is persuaded to this course, it is said, from the fact that the patent system is now the most liberal of any country in the world. In England it costs $150 to obtain a 14-year patent. In Germany, over $600, in Russia, about $400, and in Canada $100, while here it costs but $35 for a 17 years' patent. It is not thought by the commissioner of patents, Marble, that a reduction in fees would materially increase the number of patents taken out and stimulate invention, as the small fee is now in the reach of all. He thought the large revenue derived from this source was no argument in favor of reduction unless it can be shown that it is a hardship upon deserving inventors.

Comfort for Ladies.

The [illegible] ladies' of [illegible] of the cotton exposition have appointed a committee on public comfort, consisting of a number of women, whose duty it will be to provide temporary homes for ladies who come to attend the national exposition. The homes are to be private families, their rates not to exceed one dollar per day for each room, fifty cents per meal. Messenger boys with badges labeled "Ladies' committee on public comfort" will meet every train and escort the ladies to the places provided, for ten cents each.

District of Columbia Bonds.

At the approaching session of congress an effort is to be made to secure the passage of the bill making bonds of the district of Columbia receivable as security for national bank circulation. Several members of the finance committee are in favor of this object. Prominent bankers who are supporting the measure say that these are taxable bonds having a long time to run, and the principal and interest being secured by a pledge of the government, are as desirable as government bonds.

Fire in the President's Cottage.

A fire which for a time created considerable excitement, broke out to-night in the president's cottage, at the soldiers' home. At the time of the breaking out of the fire the president was absent in the city and only his sister, Mrs. McElroy, and her daughter were present. The fire was caused by an overheated stove.

Sickness or Cowardice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The trial of Capt. Howard, commandant at Pensacola navy yard, charged with deserting his post at the appearance of yellow fever in Pensacola, is progressing at the navy yard. Howard claims he left before the fever broke out because of illness.

Patriotic Illinois Ladies.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A delegation of Illinois ladies, headed by Mrs. Senator Logan, held an adjourned meeting last evening and adopted a series of resolutions looking to a proper representation of the state at the [illegible] fair.

The Flathead Agency Matter.

Yesterday Secretary Teller requested Secretary Lincoln to place a sufficient force of soldiers at the Flathead agency, Montana, to prevent the railroad construction men from approaching that reservation, from entering and interfering with the Indians.

Extension of Mail Service.

The secretaries of Arizona and Dakota territories had interviews with Secretary Teller yesterday, after which they called upon the superintendent of the railway mail service and urged the extension of mail facilities in their territories.

Receiving Securities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Secretary Folger yesterday declined to receive personal security as security for public deposits but authorized them for the deposit of United States bonds at market rates instead of at their face value.

National Bank Business.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Receipts of national bank notes for redemption for the week ending yesterday were $1,[illegible]; bonds deposited to secure circulation, $1,475,000; to secure circulation withdrawn, $2,6[illegible],500.

Government Bonds.

Since Nov. 1st, there have been received at the treasury department $1,8[illegible],500 of 3½ per cent bonds for conversion. Previous to Nov. 1st there were received $259,[illegible],500 3½ per cents for conversion.

Preventing Prize Fighting.

In view of the exhibition given by Sullivan the prize fighter, Friday night, the district commissioner yesterday instructed the police to prevent all such exhibitions in the future.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL.

Democratic Estimate of the Man who is to be the Next Speaker.

Washington Correspondence Boston Post.

"For speaker of the house of representatives, Samuel J. Randall of Pennsylvania."—N. Y. Sun.

Mr. Randall's bad features as a public man come from his Pennsylvania education. There have been many distinguished members of the democratic party in Pennsylvania, but a good many of them, like Mr. Randall, have not been sound democrats. They are mixed up with the blight of business. The controlling influence of that unfortunate state has been its mineral wealth, which, her public men tell us in one breath, is so great that she is the richest commonwealth in the union and, in another, that this wealth cannot be developed except by taxing the people of the rest of the country so that the richer Pennsylvania is the more the government has to help the people to make their riches profitable to them. This unhappy state of political economy has distorted the political thinking of almost every public man of Pennsylvania. [illegible]

The Heirs to a $2,000,000 Estate Agree among Themselves to Settle a Disputed Will and Save Litigation.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible], R. I., Nov. 19.—The contest of the will of the late [illegible] Cook, who died some time ago, has been settled out of court. The terms of settlement have not been made public, but are understood to be satisfactory to all the heirs. The allowance of Cook's invalid daughter was fixed at $1200 per year instead of $500 as in the will. The case was one of great importance, involving the distribution of property [illegible] to be worth $2,000,000, and was to have been tried in the supreme court. It involved the capability of Cook to make his will during the month of June, 1881. Cooke was one of the forty-niners and made a handsome fortune in the wholesale business at San Francisco, and doubled his fortune by speculation at home. His youngest daughter, Alice, appeared to have been carefully provided for by her father before his last and fatal illness, but in his will he cut her off

WITH A PITTANCE.

At the time it was filed and offered for probate objection to it was made by some of the legatees. The testator gave his property in such a way that in the event of the death of his children without issue the bulk of his estate would go to his brother, Louis Cooke. The provision made for his sick daughter, who is credited with epileptic fits and of weak mind, was less than $12 per week. A few months ago the heirs agreed upon a compromise, which was to give Alice $1000 per year and her sister [illegible] of the entire estate. Upon the evening fixed for signing the papers there was an objection raised by one of the interested parties and the whole plan was given up. An appeal was taken from the court of probate and the case was to be opened to-morrow in the supreme court. Fears of endless litigation led the heirs to make one more effort at a compromise. Yesterday their attorneys were in consultation from 11 A. M. till 4 P. M., the result being a settlement without recourse to law. The will is to be allowed to be probated and after that has been done the terms of settlement will be made public.

A good sample of sorghum made from cane grown in Wasco county has been shown at the Dalles.

A sulphur spring at Cove, Union county, keeps the water in the mill race warm, and enables the millers to keep the wheels going even in the coldest weather.

The assessment rolls of Union county for the year 1882 make the following exhibit: 79,570 acres of land worth $952,325; 16,073 horses and mules, $475,202; 15,468 cattle, $147,895; 25,544 sheep, $46,918, improvements, $80,250; town lots, $125,450; merchandise and implements, $449,075; money, notes, etc., $306,005; household furniture, etc., $77,352. Gross value, $2,531,776. Indebtedness, $457,390; exemptions $259,207. Total taxable property, $1,78[illegible],757. Number of polls, 1379. Chinese, 92.

Washington Territory.

A number of Illinois people are looking over Spokane Falls with the intention of locating.

Heavy building operations are in progress in the upper Columbia basin, nearly every hamlet having from two to a hundred houses in course of erection.

Crab Creek and Cottonwood are settling up wonderfully fast this fall. Scarcely a day passes but from one to five teams pass through Sprague to the above country, which starts in about three miles northwest of Sprague. The new town of Fairweather has a splendid future, it being situated in the center of a very fine country. The Colville road from Sprague passes directly through the town.

Col. Robert [illegible] Gardner, general Indian commissioner of the United States interior department, has been stopping in Spokane for the past week. Col. Gardner has been actively engaged in investigating the different Indian agencies west of the Mississippi for the past two years. He reports the Washington agencies in good condition as far as examined. At Coeur d'Alene he found 54 out of the 112 families there living in houses and leading a comparatively industrious and frugal life, and that, too, without assistance from the government. The Indians at Colville are not doing quite so well, but are on the right road. Col. Gardner's immediate mission is to get at [illegible] with Chief Moses, who will arrive in Spokane Falls during the present week.

A young Indian named Lot, who lives at the junction of the Spokane and Little Spokane rivers, went down the river salmon fishing last week, and when about two and a half to three miles below the mouth of the Little Spokane stumbled upon an old weather-beaten boot. On examining it he discovered inside the discolored skeleton of a man's foot and leg, from the knee-cap down. The shin bone, ankle bone, instep and a number of the toes were quite perfect. The flesh was entirely stripped from the bones, gnawed off, as Lot thinks, by the coyotes. The appearance of the shin indicated a violent fracture just below the knee-cap. Lot judges, from the appearance of both the boot and the bones themselves, that they have been exposed for from six months to two years. The disappearance of C. M. Williams from his ranch in that neighborhood last year has been surmised as accounting for the presence of these relics.

CHEHALIS VALLEY.

Something About its Resources, Prospects and General Character.

Tacoma Ledge.

Chehalis county is situated in the extreme western portion of Washington Territory, its shores being washed by the waters of the Pacific ocean. It has an area of about 2500 square miles, and its two great central features are Gray's Harbor, its natural outlet, and the Chehalis river, a powerful stream tributary to it. Tributary to them, flowing from both the north and the south, are numerous small streams, some of them of considerable size, and forming, when combined, nearly 300 miles of practicable water way, all of which is available for lumbering purposes and much of which is navigable. The valleys of these streams are all very fertile, and they are not subject to disastrous overflows. They probably contain a larger amount of really valuable land than any other region of similar extent west of the Cascades, at least in this territory. The greater portion of these lands are covered with an unusually light growth of alder, vine maple, spruce and salmon brush, easily cleared; and there are also many small prairies interspersed with this timber, these having, as a rule, a rich soil, especially in the lower Chehalis country.

All these lands produce the finest grasses, grains, vegetables and fruits, and have been found especially adapted to the dairy interest, which is a leading industry in the country at the present time. The uplands of the country are covered with a magnificent growth of heavy timber, consisting of red, white and yellow fir, hemlock, cedar, etc., and this is pronounced by men of extended experience to be the finest and best adapted to lumbering purposes of any body of timber as yet known on the coast. There is still an abundance of government land, both timber and agricultural, to be had in the county though it is being taken up very fast, the records in the land office at Olympia showing that during the month of October there were 30 entries of timber land, and 30 entries of homestead and pre-emption lands within its limit. The population of the county is variously estimated at from three to five thousand, though this is probably low, as the vote one year ago was over 700, and it is expected that the vote cast at the recent election will be found to exceed 1000, though returns are not all in at this writing. There can be no doubt, however, that the population of the county is increasing rapidly—the interested estimates giving the increase at 100 per cent. during the past six months. To new comers to the territory, it is a matter of surprise that a region containing the advantages evident in this case should, as to population and general development, have remained so far behind other localities in Western Washington less favored by nature. Inquiry, however, develops the fact that it has remained undeveloped on account of the lack of sufficient means of communication and intercourse with the outside world. This matter has now, however, been so far remedied as to admit of prospective and immediate increase of advancement for the Chehalis valley. The erection of a large sawmill by Simpson Bros. at the mouth of the Hoquiam river, on Gray's harbor, and the location of Hume's cannery near the place, to be followed during the coming season by the establishment of other mills and other canneries, has brought to the lower portion of the county many vessels, many of them large sea going ships, and these together with the services of a river steamer plying between the headwaters of the Chehalis and Gray's harbor, and touching semi-weekly at Elma, Montesano, the county seat, and many other points along the river, have opened up communication with Portland and San Francisco, and thus furnished a good market for all the products of the entire country. In the natural order of things the trade of this county, which is shortly to be enormous, should come to the Sound, but as the building of a railroad from Olympia to Gray's Harbor will be necessary to that end, it is not improbable that the above named points will monopolize it for some time to come. Various railroad projects, looking to the connection referred to, are being agitated, but as yet nothing definite has taken shape. Present lack of railroad facilities, however, need not in the least and in fact does not deter settlement, for there is now abundant means of communication by sea and ample markets for it thus afforded without them.

Official Vote of Spokane County.

Delegate to congress—Brents 133, Burke 347, [illegible]

LONDON LETTERS.

A Readable Resume of the Past Week's Happenings in the World's Metropolis.

POLITICAL AND SOCIETY GOSSIP.

Gossip from English Correspondents—Parliamentary Matters—Cabinet Changes—Tennyson's Play—The Review of Troops by the Queen, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Tribune's London cable says the rapid progress of business before parliament during the week surprised both parties. The systematic obstructions designed by Lord Churchill have nearly broken down, the most influential section of the tories and the Parnellites as a party alike declining to follow Lord Randolph's lead.

The Standard confesses that the ministers have reason for something more satisfactory, but predicts a coming concession to the Irish in exchange for the suspended hostility. The same journal threatens that the house of lords will ultimately reject every measure passed in the commons by means of the cloture. The ministers now hope that the session will close within a fortnight.

THE RUMORS OF CABINET CHANGES

Are merely revivals of gossip already months old—possible, but purely conjectural. It is certain that no changes will be made before the house adjourns and possibly not till early next year.

Sir Stafford Northcote's malady is a weak action of the heart; not immediately dangerous, although of serious consequence if exposed to further anxiety and worry. The members consider Lord Randolph Churchill measurably responsible for Sir Stafford Northcote's illness. Mr. Cross succeeds temporarily to the leadership. The party fully expects that Sir Stafford Northcote will resume his duties next session.

TENNYSON'S PLAY.

Tennyson's "Promise of May" met, and deserved, a more contemptuous reception than any play of recent times. The Standard lately, speaking of American critics, about Langtry, complained of English timidity in dealing with celebrities, but the critics without exception condemned Tennyson's piece, agreeing that it was crude in conception, clumsy in structure, weak and often puerile in dialogue and totally devoid of dramatic quality. The play was received on the first night from the beginning to the end with derision. It was ill-mounted and excellently acted by Mrs. Deane Kelley. It has since been freely advertised by newspaper letters and the Marquis of Queensbury's escapade but the verdict remains the same.

THE SILVER KING.

The Herald's London special says: "The Silver King," a new melodrama, by Messrs. Jones and Herman, was produced at the Princess theater last night. The three principal characters are Wilfred Denver, a self accused murderer afterward known as "Silver King," who has made an immense fortune in Nevada silver mines; Nellie, his long suffering and faithful wife; Captain Skinner, known as "Spider," a gentleman burglar. The house roundly hissed at the villain as a mark of the disapprobation of his villainy in approval of the excellence of his performance. At the end Mr. Barrett asked whether the piece was a success. A loud unanimous shout of "yes" was the reply. The authors were then summoned before the curtain.

AS GOOD AS A CIRCUS.

The World's London cable says: Jingoism was never so triumphant as it was to-day, and this under the auspices of the great anti-jingo prophet, Gladstone. The feeling among many of the officers of the army I happen to know, is one of disgust. They felt that the [illegible] was wholly unworthy of a great nation, and they went home with the impression that they had been taking part in something unpleasantly like a [illegible] procession. The radicals have every reason to be ashamed of it. The chief feature of the day was the huge crowd—such a crowd as is only to be seen in London on a holiday—and I must record the remarkable enthusiasm with which the queen was received, everywhere and by all classes. The loyalty of the British people in the metropolis, at least, is evidently as great as ever, and the cheers to-day must have been highly dissatisfactory to the republican [illegible].

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The appearance of the Prince of Wales, who joined the royal procession at the foot of St. James street, also produced immense enthusiasm. The London populace like him as much as ever. [illegible] All the clubs in Pall Mall gave up their sacred windows to the ladies and relaxed the austerity of their monastic rules so far as to permit their fair guests afterward to lunch in their dining rooms. Consequently the usually dull appearance of these buildings was greatly enlivened by gay costumes and pretty faces. The fog, which had cleared off for the queen, settled down over London again as evening came on, and now we are in Cimmerian darkness.

THE RADICALS [illegible] FIGHT.

The radicals were never more confident in their strength than they are now, thanks to the jingo fever, for quelling which Lord Beaconsfield was incredibly hunted down. The opposition to the cloture in the house of commons has practically collapsed, Lord Randolph Churchill's tactics being found clever but impossible. At the close of the session there will certainly be a reconstruction of the cabinet, and Mr. Gladstone will at least resign one of his offices.

ANNEXATION OF EGYPT.

The Sun's London cable says: From Egypt there is little or nothing new to report, but there is the same steady drift toward annexation. Every day new guarantees are given, new responsibilities undertaken and new relations established, on behalf of the local government. The latest movement is in the direction of abolishing the slave trade in Soudan and Darfour, [illegible] obligation is imposed upon Egypt, it becomes a duty which England finds herself to carry out. Lord Dufferin is credited with making rapid progress in negotiating [illegible] with the notables; but there will be little progress in the direction of formal annexation of England's policy until Arabi's trial is out of the way. [illegible] the premier and The Thunderer, which really instructs the state [illegible].

MARQUIS OF QUEENSBURY'S RULES.

The noble marquis of Queensbury attended during the week a representation of Mr. Tennyson's new drama, which he conceived to be the worst play that has been brought here in many years. Tennyson holds up a free thinker to public odium as the motive of his play. The marquis promptly denounced the laureate during the first act, and on the fall of the curtain he made a violent and impassioned speech to the audience. It was a great sensation, but his grace was put out of the theater. The affair has become the occasion of widespread discussion in print and out of it. Free thinkers are gathering to his lordship's support; Mr. Tennyson is abused more than he was by the dramatic critics, and we are having [illegible] according to new Queensbury rules.

WHAT THE MARQUIS SAYS.

The marquis says in the Daily papers: "I am a secularist and a free thinker, and, though I repudiate it, a sort of atheist, and as president of the British Secular Union, I protest against Mr. Tennyson's abominable caricature of an individual whom I presume he would have us believe represents some body of people which, thanks to the good of humanity, most certainly does not exist among free thinkers."

A SOCIETY SCANDAL.

The marquis's sister, Lady Gertrude Douglas has scandalized society during the week by the disclosure of her marriage to a baker. Her ladyship is by no means of tender years and the baker is only 21. Her ladyship has money and the young man is a good baker.

MINOR MATTERS.

"Iolanthe," Sullivan and Gilbert's new opera will be produced on Saturday at the Savoy theater.

Mr. Trollope gains slowly, the troublesome symptoms of the brain continuing. His physicians expect that he will be able to move from the hotel on Monday.

THE BUSINESS WORLD.

A Lack of Animation not easily Explained—The State of Trade as Reported in New York and the Markets.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—There is a continued lack of animation in the field of business, which cannot be easily explained to the general satisfaction. It is known that the country has really been well blest of soil, while the leading productive interests of the country are in active operation thus affording ample employment of labor at good wages, and yet the condition marked [illegible] a prevalence of distrust among large capitalists, and a reduced income from government bonds has resulted. The process of renewing the national debt at a low rate of interest is causing the withdrawal of a good deal of capital that has been invested in these securities. Much of this money is being invested in real estate and other mixed forms, which will yield better returns, building operations all over the country being exceptionally active. A larger amount than usual has been drawn to the west and south to aid in crop movements; but after making all due allowances for these diversions, there must be a large amount of floating capital, but it requires a comparatively good rate of interest to bring it out.

This serves to hold speculation in check and to inspire business men with caution, which, however, is now a wholesome indication. The dullness of trade is to some extent due, no doubt, to the popular belief that prices are to rule lower and the disposition of distributing merchants to [illegible] their actual requirements with heavy imports has led to the accumulation of stocks of many kinds of goods and unsettled markets. The reluctance of farmers and speculators to part with their crops, except at prices which are deemed extravagant in periods of plenty, has served to complicate and make the business situation worse than it would otherwise have been had the fruits of the soil been converted into money with due alacrity. The prevailing business torpor, however, may prove a blessing by serving as a wholesome restraint upon the prevailing prodigality.

THE MARKETS.

Flour irregular and only strong popular grades are firm.

Wheat has ruled firm throughout.

Lard firmer, but other hog products dull and barely steady.

Petroleum, crude and refined, lower and less active.

Spirits of turpentine has further declined, while rosin is active and nominally steady.

Leather firm and quiet.

Tobacco dull and unchanged.

Hides very firm but quiet.

Borax and quicksilver unchanged.

Oils—1600 bbls. crude sperm and 1500 bbls. of crude whale oils have arrived here the past few days; no sales, but exporters are negotiating for some lots. Holders quote $1 05@1 06. The stock of whale in first hands is exceedingly large, and prices are firm at 55c for northern and 5½ for southern. Sales are reported at New Bedford of 100 bbls. south sea for manufacture on private terms.

Domestic dried fruits dull; nothing doing in California kinds.

Hops—Light supplies current have served to restrict the demand, and business during the last three days has been comparatively light. The market shows no signal of weakness; choice new state growth having sold at $1 15; medium to fine grades of new state selling at 95@1 10, and new western and state yearlings at 95c@1 10 as to quality, and it looks as though prices had reached the highest point, but dealers appear to be quite confident that there is to be no decided reaction.

London cables show small market; no change in quotations.

Raw sugar—Dull; prices are nominal; refined has further declined.

Coffee—Dull and about steady.

Tea—Easier.

Rice—Slow of sale.

Spices—Quiet.

Pig iron—Dull and lower.

Tin—Steady.

Lead—Dull.

There is fair business in foreign and domestic wines and liquors and with moderate stock prices as a rule are firm.

Fruits—A fair [illegible] and prevails for foreign dried, with indications that price of raisins has touched bottom. Other descriptions also remain steady.

Nuts are moving a little more freely and prices are unchanged.

At auction sale yesterday resulted in $1 72½ being paid for loose muscatels; $2 20 for London layer raisins and 5½ for currants.

California products in common with other products of that kind are quiet.

Wool—Inactive owing to the depressed and unsatisfactory condition of woolen goods. Market sales indicate 90,000 pounds spring, 23@28c; 500 pounds fall, at 22c. The Boston market is fairly active, with more trading in low lines. Sales, 121,000 pounds of spring at 32c; new fall, [illegible].

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 20, 1882.

THE INLAND EMPIRE.

In area, in resources and in present wealth, the great region lying east of the Cascade mountains, north of the Nevada line and extending across to the eastern border of Idaho, is indeed an empire. Every industry in which men work and of which mankind profits, may find there its opportunity. Coal is there, timber is there, pure water is there, the precious metals are there, the soil is rich and its growths cover the whole range of temperate climate production. Hemmed in by high mountains and isolated by great distances from markets, it has, though widely famed, till now remained sparsely settled. The communities, which have found place in it, however, are prosperous and two or three cities and some scores of thrifty towns attest the native richness of the country. The original settlements were the outgrowth of the mining business which is still a great and profitable industry; but the old activity is giving way to the new and greater enterprises of agriculture and commerce. The country is developing at a wonderful pace. Railroads are coming in from the east and west and the south and are reaching their branches across the rich sections. The pulsations of energy and new life go up and down the iron tracks and fields blossom in waste places beside them.

About six years ago great numbers of people, farmers, attracted by opportunities for settlement upon open land, the excellence of the climate and the near prospect of rail connections with the great markets, turned toward the inland empire. They went in by wagons, driving their stock before them, and when they found good lands stopped and built cabins and put in crops. Year by year the immigration has increased till now every creek has its settlement and every district its town. Within six years the population of eastern Oregon and eastern Washington has doubled, and great settlements have sprung up in what before was a wilderness. The new comers find there a great rolling untimbered land, rich in soil, varied in products, a climate less moist than ours, warmer in summer and colder in winter, and free space enough for a million people. They produce enormous crops of wheat, oats and flax, for which ready market is found at prices 40 per cent. less than Portland quotations, and in the way of exchange get merchandise at 20 per cent. above Portland prices. With these disadvantages they can compete with the farmers of the Willamette valley because all their land is available for fields and does not require clearing; while the yield per acre is greater than here. Farming has not been carried on long enough to determine the lasting qualities of the soil but, so far, it has improved with cultivation and fields cropped for several seasons yield as well or better than when the sod was first broken. While seasons are not as regular as in the Willamette valley and harvests not so sure, failure of crops has never been known. Rich native grasses grow everywhere and afford fine pasturage through summer and winter, stock requiring other feed only during the occasional winter snow storms. Great bands of cattle formerly roamed the hills, but the farmer is rapidly driving the stockman from the range.

The question of transportation is the one on which the fortunes of the country depend. Take away the railroads and the river boats and the country would become again a vast stock range. Cheap rates mean general prosperity, and high rates mean hard times. Every mile of railroad extension opens up for settlement a range of country for twenty miles on each side of it and builds somewhere within that range a town. Nothing so marks the rapid advancement of the country as the growth of the towns. In the whole region there is not a place whose permanent improvements for the past year do not equal one-sixth of its property valuation. For example, the town of Cheney, population 1200, which transacts a general business of nearly a million dollars a year, and which is the center and market of a great farming district, was not in existence two years ago.

The people have not yet come to the point of living well. The houses are generally the first houses of a new country, and are small and almost rudely plain. Scarcity of lumber makes houses very expensive; but so great is the rush of building that it would be almost impossible to engage workmen for country work if the people had money to pay them. This generally they have not; but they are rich in hope, resources and prospects and well content to wait a few more harvests before branching out into luxuries which however pleasant are by no means necessary to health or happiness. The truly American character of the people is shown by school houses through all the country and it is particularly noticeable that they are the best buildings seen by the traveler. Churches there are none except in the towns. Evidences of neighborly kindness may be seen, but of social life there is little outside of the towns. The people are too busy in opening up their fields, fencing their places and in preparing for good times "when the railroad comes," and the distances between settlements are too great to admit of much waste of time in social amenities. The section is one where work is to be done and where it pays, and the people are a working, thrifty people.

This is the state of the country except in a few districts which have been long occupied. The Walla Walla valley in particular has been thickly settled for twenty years and in all things has progressed as far as the Willamette valley in Oregon. Its houses and fences are made after more economical models, but lumber is high, very high, and a building which in western Oregon would cost a thousand dollars, there costs nearly double that sum. Many of the settlements of eastern Oregon are old, and there, too, the people have gathered about them the pleasant things of life as well as its necessaries. Throughout the country improved farming machinery is in general use. All the means which save labor and add to the farmer's profits are employed and the business of agriculture which is the great industry is carried on in a thoroughly business-like way.

It is not possible to learn the value of the annual productions of this region, but it figures up to many millions. Its consumption of merchandise is great of course. The southern half of Idaho buys in San Francisco and ships by way of the Central Pacific railroad and Kelton, Nevada. All goods for eastern Oregon, eastern Washington and northern Idaho go in by way of the Columbia river. Portland holds the situation to control this trade but she does not wholly do it. Travelling salesmen from San Francisco houses seek out every hamlet and do a profitable business. It is greatly to the discredit of Portland that three-fifths of the business of the country under its eye goes past it and on to San Francisco. Something must be wrong or this would not be. Either we lack the enterprise to push out or the liberality to compete. San Francisco men should be driven out of the field, and we must take the spirit of the merchants of Portland if they do not speedily rid the country of them.

No other section of the United States offers to immigrants so many attractions as does the inland empire. There is room, and open room for all. No clearing of land is necessary and the settler has but to plow his field, which costs him nothing, plant his seed, and the harvest is sure. Great spaces have already been reclaimed, but great unoccupied regions yet remain and but little inquiry is necessary to find them. In few places is the return so sure, nowhere is it so quick. The hardships of long and tedious mountain marches before reaching good land are of the past. Trains now run into the heart of the region and along its arteries, and from Portland the trip is short and not very expensive. People are rapidly coming in and, with completion of the Northern Pacific railroad, immigrants will come in legions. The day of small things is past.

THE ALASKAN TROUBLE.

It is not probable that there will be for a long time any more trouble with the Indians of Alaska. The chastisement administered by Capt. Merriman to the turbulent and murderous band of natives at Chatham straits was as severe as it was complete and it had been long deserved. So long had they gone unwhipped of justice that they evidently supposed that they could continue their outrages with impunity and defy all attempts to bring them to punishment. The seizure of the white men who were to be put to death in default of the payment of a heavy ransom, was a bold piece of work; and though it had the barbarian's excuse of being a reprisal for the accidental death of a native by the explosion of a bomb used for killing whales, yet Capt. Merriman could do nothing less, consistently with his duty and necessary regard for humanity, than take the summary measures he adopted. The effect upon the natives of that section will be excellent. They are a people of savage and ferocious character, who can be dealt with only by the strong hand. An American commander has done on this occasion what British commanders do in similar circumstances in all quarters of the globe when subjects of the British crown are made victims of savage violence. Besides, it is necessary to make the coasts and islands of our Alaskan possessions safe for the prosecution of industry and trade. Already the northwest trading company,—an enterprise started and controlled in this city,—has $120,000 invested in a business in Alaska that promises to grow to great proportions. Its product of fish oils is already large, and next year will doubtless reach 200,000 gallons. The fisheries of Alaska are growing rapidly into importance, mines are being developed and in time the lumber output of the country will be of great value. But to make anything of the country it is necessary first of all to cause the natives to understand that they cannot commit outrages with impunity. The old Roman maxim—parcere subjectis, debellare superbos—spare the submissive but subjugate the haughty and insolent,—has never been improved as a doctrine of government by a civilized over an uncivilized people.

The national civil service reform league has issued an address setting forth the plans and purposes of the organization, with a statement of the evils already brought upon our system by the prevailing methods, and the greater evils to be feared if they are allowed to continue. The address admonishes the people that there is no question of more commanding importance than the reform of the civil service, "because it touches the very fundamental principles of the government, freedom of the suffrage; it is the question whether elections shall honestly represent the popular will," and urges that "good citizens can render no better service to the country than by supporting only those candidates who will actively favor in congress the passage of the bills now pending in both houses, or bills founded upon the same general principle, establishing non-partisan and open competition and probation for subordinate appointments in the civil service."

The most remarkable of recent sales of land is the transfer of 60,000 acres in North Carolina to a colony of Mennonites from Russia. It is remarkable both because of its indication of the increase of immigration in the South and because of its exhibition of the inclination of the Mennonites to establish themselves in the United States. Although their conscientious scruples against bearing arms have been respected to some extent by the czar, they evidently regard the United States as the country where war is least probable; and in coming to this country that they may live in peace, they also increase their prospects of pecuniary prosperity. They are among the most industrious and frugal of immigrants, and North Carolina is fortunate in securing a large colony of them.

For more than ten years Mr. S. A. Moreland has been in the employ of The Oregonian Publishing Company, the greater part of the time working on this journal, but for the last two years chiefly upon the Telegram. His duties as police judge now requiring all his attention, he has for the present withdrawn from the profession of journalism. But he has a natural fact for the business, and of course will return to it; for though he is as good a police judge as Portland ever had, yet he is a natural journalist, and after following the calling so long will never feel quite at home in any other. Besides Mr. Moreland is not the stuff of which professional office-holders are made.

Vanderbilt has unloaded $10,000,000 in government bonds at a discount of half a year's interest. It is supposed that this is to prepare for a second payment, which in a few days will be due on the Nickel-plate railroad purchase. It probably is the first direct evidence which the public has received that he was the purchaser of that road. There is nothing in the transaction itself remarkable except that the son of a man who commenced life as a boatman in New York harbor now buys railroads and makes payments of $10,000,000 at a time, as a wholesale merchant would purchase and pay for a carload of beans or flour.

Of late we are having plenty of events that "mark eras" in the history of the northwest. One of the same is the departure of the first train to-day from Portland towards the east. Within nine or ten months we shall have another in the arrival and departure of the first through trains over the Northern Pacific.

From the report of the Illinois board of labor statistics, it appears that the average annual income of workingmen of all occupations in Chicago is $608.20. The stationary engineers report the largest average earnings, namely, $916, and the hod-carriers the smallest, namely, $342.

The Pendleton East Oregonian is making war on the gamblers and law breakers of its town. In the contest it has developed spirit, boldness and ability. Under the management of Messrs. Jackson, Wager & Guyer it has become a thoroughly good local newspaper.

Fort Pillow Chalmers is counted out on a technicality. A contest will follow.

THE CHROMATIC CONCERT.

[illegible] musical enthusiast, [illegible] of [illegible] we have [illegible] before [illegible] a time, and [illegible] should have developed, [illegible] If the public [illegible] in the nature of [illegible] hearty [illegible] splendid effect [illegible] day is not far distant [illegible] which [illegible] Mr. [illegible] of the great [illegible] Arts and [illegible] that, instead of being [illegible] [illegible] should [illegible] and [illegible]

The first orchestral [illegible] of this [illegible] Friday evening [illegible] the [illegible] the overture to Martha. [illegible] a [illegible] in [illegible] possibility of a desire to produce [illegible] the [illegible] the overture [illegible] of the theme by the [illegible] a little [illegible] for strings only [illegible] carefully [illegible] given prominence. [illegible] a recent [illegible] The solo demand[illegible] [illegible] The careful shading and [illegible] accompaniments to the [illegible] marked appre[illegible] [illegible] The prin[illegible] Messrs. Thielhorn and [illegible] were [illegible] played. The orchestra [illegible] somewhat [illegible] perhaps, the "Farewell Symphony" of Haydn. The work was [illegible] [illegible] with the [illegible] melody which characterizes so many of Haydn's [illegible] works.

It would be well to hint here that [illegible] [illegible] should [illegible] every string [illegible] the neglect of this is to give harsh and obtrusive effect to the instru[illegible] upon which they are not used. The perform[illegible] was full of fire and vigor in the allegro [illegible] and [illegible] movements, and the adagio was grace[illegible] played, [illegible] only in the particular mentioned.

The "Girofle" waltz and "Light Cavalry" over[illegible] were the remaining orchestral pieces. The former is refreshingly melodic, and was excellently played. The latter is a characteristic compo[illegible] by Suppe, and contains a very beautiful motif for strings which appeared as an artistic picture in a very ordinary frame. Mr. How[illegible], of San Francisco, was the [illegible] vocalist. In his first song, "The Bridge," there was perhaps a slight waver from true intonation, but an [illegible], artistic style made ample amends, and in "Oh! Fair Dove," neither tone or phrasing were open to criti[illegible]. Mr. Howard has a pure bass voice, well under control within its compass. He was warmly encored after the last mentioned song and responded with [illegible] "Chorister."

An arrangement for two violins and viola of Beethoven's Trio for two oboes and cor anglais was ad[illegible] played by Messrs. [illegible] Harris and Thielhorn.

The announcement that Miss Egbert would play a pianoforte solo added to no small measure to the expectant interest which preceded the concert. Her [illegible] was greeted with hearty manifestations of welcome and [illegible] feeling. Still, she had a crucial test before her. To make her debut in a work by Chopin, who requires such consummate interpre[illegible], [illegible] reliance on her own powers, or [illegible] temerity. Miss Egbert's playing of the [illegible] demonstrated the fact that she has a [illegible] in the role of a solo pianiste, [illegible] the nervous tremor which [illegible] the sounding off of a phrase. She showed a true appreciation of the [illegible] of her composer, and a technique capable of [illegible] greater breadth. Her [illegible] received a persistent encore, and this [illegible] she played in the most faultless manner a charming piece [illegible] "Die Muhle," by Jensen. If Miss Egbert intends adopting the profes[illegible] of music, she could have given no better proof of her own knowledge of her art. She will prove a val[illegible] adjunct to the orchestral concerts, and it is reason[illegible] to hope that [illegible] should be announced.

Mr. [illegible] has been [illegible] mentioned in con[illegible] with the [illegible] matters of the orchestra, [illegible] that it may seem unnecessary to enlarge upon his share of the work; still so much of the success and proficiency of the whole is due to his untiring labor [illegible] and zeal, that he cannot, looking back to the dearth which preceded his work, but feel pride and satisfaction in what has been accomplished.

The same remark will apply to the generous gentleman who came forward with the sinews of war and placed the orchestral union on a footing until it was able to demand the public appreciation which is now given so lavishly.

ENGINEER KNAPP'S PLAN.

HE ESTIMATES THE COST OF THE IMPROVEMENT AT $6,500,000.

He Says, Further, on Account the Wall for the Columbia River bar, and he Speaks [illegible]

155 [illegible] STREET,
New York, Nov. [illegible]

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

I beg to reply to your [illegible] permanently deepen and straighten the channel over the bar at the mouth of the Columbia river, and trust you will give me the honor to [illegible] [illegible].

In your editorial of the [illegible] of October you give a very clear and scientific description of my plan and then give your views of it, for which I am indebted, as I want to have it [illegible] and fully [illegible] [illegible], for the reason that there is no question so [illegible] to fore the people of Oregon so vitally important as is this one, as the very [illegible] that this great improvement is accomplished it will [illegible], in my humble opinion, every other [illegible] enterprise in connection with your great and prosperous future.

[illegible] "It may be doubted if it is possible to [illegible] such a wall as Mr. Knapp proposes. It may be doubted if there is money enough in America to [illegible] it were found possible; and further, it may be doubted, if once built, if it would do any good."

[illegible] I will say that it is just as [illegible] and practical to build that work as it is to [illegible] [illegible]. As to the question of the necessary amount of money being in America to pay for [illegible] [illegible] I will say that my offer is to build that work at the expense and outlay of myself and associates, to be reimbursed by the government when it is [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] or other proper conditions, but the results are permanent [illegible] that the channel will maintain its increased depth and width for all time without future expenditure of any sort.

To secure plus this the work must be permanent; this is a natural conclusion and [illegible], but I don't undertake to infer that because our works are permanent that certain results will be permanent, and thereby endeavor to get a contract out of the government that will be a blind, as was [illegible] with [illegible] works and contracts on the Mississippi river, but specify that the results for which the government will pay will be permanent. There can be nothing ambiguous about this. It is plain language. Therefore all objections thus far urged are fully answered by the simple fact that I am ready to take the contract and execute these works so as to permanently increase the depth of the channel over the Columbia river bar six feet, besides widening and straightening it, and virtually making it a better harbor of refuge for all sorts of vessels in all sorts of weather than any harbor now existing on the Pacific coast, all at my own and associates' risk and expense; and if we fail to accomplish it, and accomplish it permanently, it will be our own loss, and nobody but ourselves will be injured.

Now, the next question is, what will the cost of this improvement be, and is the commerce and wealth of Oregon and the Columbia river sufficiently great to justify such an expenditure on the part of the government? The cost of the work as I estimate it, and offer to do it for, will be $6,500,000 subject to an increase or decrease of from 3 to 5 per cent. from this amount by figuring the conditions and contingencies right on the ground. This is a reasonable estimate, and is so because of the great extent of the work enabling it to be done in the closest manner by economical management, by an expensive but first-class outfit, made especially for the work, manipulated and managed by practical men, who are working for themselves and not for the government.

The magnitude of this work may be compared with the above cost, when it is stated that the works will be a substitution of an artificial stone bar for nature's sand bar, and built in from 50 to 80 feet depth of water, about parallel with the coast line, and having a length of about five miles, averaging 25 feet high and 125 feet base, including allowance for sinking in the bottom.

In regard to the commerce and wealth of Oregon justifying this expense, I will say that I believe the wealth of Oregon will be doubled in three years' time from its commencement just by this work alone, and not counting its ordinary increase.

This is about all I have to say directly bearing on my proposition. Indirectly I will say I understand the board of U. S. engineers are going to recommend the jetty plan of Major Gillespie, notwithstanding its rejection by a previous board of government engineers. I am acquainted with Major Gillespie enough to say, on my own responsibility, that I doubt if he would ever have offered that plan had he known of my plan and the theory on which it is based; for, notwithstanding the corps to which he belongs, he is too intelligent and independent to allow himself to be sacrificed by the professional mistakes of the corps. All I have to say in regard to that plan is, that while the jetty is building the channel over the bar will deepen slightly, but only temporarily, and after the jetty is completed that channel will become shoaler and worse than ever before.

Further, from the laying of the very first stone in that jetty the channel through the entrance river above will become shoaler and shorter, so navigation will become worse than ever. Besides this contraction will cause greater overflows than your valley ever experienced before. The government engineers can't, and they know they can't, name a port in the world where the jetty principle has been applied that this state of circumstances has not quickly and permanently followed. The commerce of scores of ports throughout the world has been ruined and driven to other quarters by this self-same jetty principle having been applied. Where, then, will any benefit to Oregon come in by applying that erroneous principle to the greatest river and port? I would advise Oregon to pause; if it can't do the right thing, then it is certainly better it should do nothing. Cost and outlays are nothing, but results are everything to her.

I am now preparing a chart with my works as proposed marked out on it for the Portland board of trade, which I hope you will [illegible] in your journal, and also that all interested in the welfare of Oregon will take the opportunity to examine by the kind permission of the board. Most respectfully,

EX-PRESIDENT BILLINGS.

His Trip over the Northern Pacific—Superior and Duluth—The Yellowstone Division—Livingstone—Remarkable Progress and Emigration—The Great Continental Enterprise.

St. Paul Pioneer Press, [illegible]

[illegible] Pioneer Press reporter [illegible] Mr. Frederick Billings, ex-president of the Northern Pacific, who was [illegible] in [illegible] car [illegible] at Union depot yards. Mr. Billings received [illegible] kindly and readily answered his questions regarding his trip to the west. Mr. Billings stated that he arrived [illegible] from St. [illegible] Superior City [illegible] ago, and [illegible] everything there that could [illegible] growing. The Northern Pacific company [illegible] [illegible] a fine, large dock, [illegible] improvements. These and the early advent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha [illegible] [illegible] beneficial to the town. The new [illegible] will [illegible] reach the place. Duluth is flourishing [illegible] [illegible] and everybody there is [illegible] the future. Mr. Billings said his faith in the [illegible] northwestern country is so strong that he believes that at the head of the lake there will be a great city that will bring the interests of Duluth and Superior together. The two cities will be connected next year, the only gap now being the St. Louis river, for covering which the Northern Pacific company now has a charter from the federal government. Superior might grow faster but for the fact that there is still a disposition by non-resident real estate owners to hold their property at high [illegible]. From Superior Mr. Billings went straight to

STILLWATER, MONT.

Forty miles beyond Billings. The track is laid twenty-five miles west from Billings, and will reach Benson's Landing, which is 115 miles west from Billings, by the middle of December. This will be the end of the Yellowstone division [illegible] miles in length. From Benson's Landing, to be called hereafter Livingstone, after one of the old directors of the company, a branch to the Yellowstone park, about sixty miles in length, will be built with the intention of its completion by June 5, 1883. Mr. Billings referred to the astonishing growth of the country at Fargo and all other important places. He had never before been on the [illegible] division, but he expressed his confidence that trains [illegible] can be run as rapidly as on the New York Central; and from the beginning of this division to its end the picturesque scenery is of itself something that will of itself attract travelers [illegible]. Taking this scenery [illegible] in the wonders of the so-called Bad Lands, and the attractions of the Yellowstone park, Mr. Billings believes that the Northern Pacific will be the most popular line for pleasure seekers this side of the Rocky mountains. When the road is open, as it will be next season to the Pacific coast, and the scenery of the Columbia and of Puget sound will be so comparatively near, no one can realize the amount of travel on this road.

Emigration is continuously pouring to the front, mostly from the northern states. In all the new towns there is springing up an appearance of thrift, enterprise and push that is so eminently characteristic of the people of the northern states.

THE LANDS.

Between the Red river and the Missouri are all being put under cultivation; and beyond the Missouri to the Yellowstone, a stretch of 217 miles, the same process of development is going on, such as was seen two and three years ago from Fargo westward. The policy of the Northern Pacific company to sell lands to actual settlers, and not in large blocks to speculators, is adhered to. All the important stations on the line of the road are exhibiting active progress, and with that constant proof of the resources of the country wherever the plow turns the soil. Everybody is hopeful and emigration must come in along the line, because of the great inducements.

Mr. Billings is an old Northern Pacific man. He was with the road in all its dark days, spending thirteen years in its history, and has never lost faith in it. After this trip he returned home more Northern Pacific than ever, believing it to be the greatest enterprise on the continent, and when completed, together with its branches, will be the greatest road in the land.

Other matters were touched upon that proved more than words the sincerity of Mr. Billings' belief in a that would have stimulated the conviction of any one disposed to doubt the assertions made.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 20, 1882.

NEWS OF SATURDAY.

[From the Sunday Oregonian.]

Stanford Going East.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—Leland Stanford, president of the Central Pacific, [illegible] accompanied by Mrs. Stanford and their son, [illegible] day via the Southern [illegible] New York [illegible] they will take the steamer [illegible] the government [illegible] passes over [illegible] before leaving [illegible] practically finished, there being little to do to the Pacific coast. Trains will soon be running [illegible] coast to New Orleans. [illegible] outlet [illegible] from New Orleans by the [illegible] peake and Ohio, and there will be a [illegible] rail from San Francisco to New York [illegible] coast [illegible] says, he is promised the California people [illegible] done before a great while.

Fighting for Temperance.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—A large number of people interested in the promotion of temperance have formed an organization under the name of the "Massachusetts [illegible]" to oppose the organized movement of the liquor dealers, through their personal liberty league. The special object at present is to secure the vote of [illegible] commonwealth holding their sessions in December. A stirring appeal signed by leading temperance men of the state will be published to-morrow.

Big Riot.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—The Times-Democrat's [illegible], Ala., special says: A serious riot occurred here last night in which Jim Roberts, [illegible] Dix and Charley Griggs were wounded. Pistols and shotguns were used. The row lasted all night, and the destruction of show windows and lamps was considerable. It seems to have grown out of a general dislike for the city government. About a thousand shots were fired.

Foxhall not to be Sold.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The Sun says: "A London dispatch says that Jas. R. Keene's four-year-old colt, Foxhall, has been put in the private sale list. The amount asked for Foxhall is 7000 guineas. Keene read over, last night, a copy of this dispatch, handed to him by a reporter, and said: 'No; that cannot be so. It is a mistake.'"

Mississippi River Improvement.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 18.—The congressional committee appointed to investigate the needs of the Mississippi river is here, and Capt. John Condon is following in its wake. It is understood the commissioners regard an attempt to improve the channel as useless. Examinations were made of the work of the government forces at Island No. 30, at Osceola bar, and the plant at Plum Point.

Smallpox.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 18.—The approach of cold weather brings the customary smallpox cases. The health officers of Montgomery say the type of the disease is not virulent, being successfully treated at the pest houses. Only twenty cases are under treatment.

Interesting Phenomena.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—The electric storm here has greatly interfered with the transmission of telegrams. Messages were sent yesterday from Bangor, Me., to North Sydney, Cape Breton, 700 miles, without a battery.

Arkansas Election Returns.

The Magnetic Storm.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A great magnetic storm is prevailing on the continent and throughout the united kingdom causing serious interruptions to telegrams.

Turkey Getting Anxious.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The Turkish ambassador at London has been instructed to inform Lord Granville that unless further assurance of the English policy in Egypt is given the sultan will send a commissioner.

The Joyce Murders.

DUBLIN, Nov. 18.—Miles Joyce was arraigned yesterday for the murder of the old woman, the mother of John Joyce. Malley, of counsel for the defence, applied for a postponement of the trial of Joyce because the indignation aroused and the publication of evidence in the preceding cases was calculated to prejudice a jury and a fair trial.

Biding His Time.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The government continues to decline all attempts of other powers to open or exchange notes on the question of Egypt and until the Anglo-French negotiations are concluded Bismarck is determined not to speak.

Turkey Wants Capital.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The porte has formed a sub-commission of public work to draft a list of all concessions to be granted to settlers. The list includes railways, roads, mines, tramways and harbors in all parts of the empire. The design of the [illegible] is to draw foreign capital and open up the country.

Suicide of an Austrian Consul.

TURIN, Nov. 18.—The Austrian consul in this city committed suicide by blowing out his brains.

Perished in the Flames.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Fires to-day destroyed the court, all buildings, school and postoffice at Crozon near Guimpan. A teacher and eight children perished in the flames.

PARLIAMENT.

House of Commons.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—In the house of commons yesterday, the under-secretary of the colonies stated, in answer to a question, that Cetewayo was not a prisoner, but was staying at Oudemolen, waiting the completion of arrangements for his restoration to the throne.

Sir Charles Dilke, under-secretary of the foreign office promised to table the correspondence with the governments of Peru and Chili in relation to Peruvian bonds.

Gladstone stated that it was not intended that the offices of first lord of the treasury and chancellor of the exchequer should be in future represented by one person. The present arrangement, he said, was not good. He did not consider himself as being able to search out the work as thoroughly as the chancellor of the exchequer ought, and as in former time, he tried to do [illegible], and he hoped a long time would not elapse before a change was made.

In replying to a question of Ashmead Bartlett, Gladstone denied that dual control had been abolished in Egypt. The Egyptian government had expressed a desire that it should be, but that this expression was not the outcome of English advice, but was spontaneous.

Debate on the procedure rules was resumed. Eight rules remain for decision, all of minor importance. After these are disposed of the house will next consider a motion to make the whole resolution applicable, as the experience of only one session. Next, whether the details of bills passing second reading shall be referred to grand sessional committees, finishing with the whole procedure question in a fortnight.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Export and Domestic Breadstuffs.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The bureau of statistics reports the value of export and domestic breadstuffs during October, 1882, at $16,205,103; in same month of 1881 the value was $14,669,914. The total for ten months ending Oct. 31, 1881, was $192,292,552, against $140,738,000 for the same period in 1882.

SPORTING NOTES.

Rather Exciting for one Party.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—At a soft glove exhibition here last night, John L. Sullivan, the Boston champion, who has challenged any man in Washington to stand up before him for four rounds, knocked Jordan Rensaler down seven times in one minute. At the last knock-down Rensaler attempted to rise to his feet and face his opponent, but the police interfered and put a stop to the contest. Rensaler was a volunteer contestant and was severely punished, blood spurting from his nose and face when the contest was stopped.

SOUTH AMERICA.

War in Peru.

QUITO, Nov. 18.—The government forces have won a battle at Chambo, a small village 120 miles north of Guayaquil. The president has ordered six days mourning for the killed.

THE ACCUSED MURDERER.

The prisoners, Alfred Andersen and Bertha Nelson, brought up from San Francisco by Chief Lagnens, were turned over to Sheriff Sears Saturday and are now confined in the county jail. The latter appears to be a simple minded, artless peasant girl and judging from her manner and the story she tells there can be but little doubt of her innocence of any complicity in the murder of Charles Andersen. The chest of Alfred Andersen was examined yesterday and many of the articles of clothing found therein were identified by both Bertha Nelson and the woman who washed for Charles after he came here, as being his property. Many of the shirts, etc., were marked "C. A." The gold watch and pistol have also been identified and the prisoner admits that they belonged to his brother, but says he traded for them. The pocket book found in Alfred's possession has also been identified by a person who says that when he last saw it, it was crowded with greenbacks. When questioned as to what became of his brother when they went hunting together, Andersen said they came back together, but the gunsmith testifies that Alfred came back alone bringing both guns, and that when asked where his brother was, replied that he had gone to Chicago. Proof will be forthcoming that Andersen lost in the neighborhood of $160 on the Sound and at Victoria, while a party in the city states that he had been supporting him for a month before leaving here, giving him money in small sums from time to time, and that he is positive that Andersen had no money when his brother came here. The clothing of the murdered man was shown to Miss Nelson yesterday. At the sight of it she broke down and cried like a child. She appears to be heartbroken and says that she dreams of the murdered man and wakes up imagining that he is standing before her. She told Sheriff Sears yesterday that she felt as if she should never smile again. Her principal anxiety is that a knowledge of her situation should not reach her parents in Sweden, who are honest people and from whom she parted an indulgent girl but a few months since.

ROUNDABOUT RIPPLES.

Points Picked From Our Northwestern Exchange List.

Lewiston [illegible] 880 inhabitants.

The [illegible] mill at Whatcom is shipping shingles to Seattle.

Besides their new woolen mill Olympia is to have a saw mill soon.

Large amounts of grain still remain in the fields [illegible] Whatcom county.

Dayton (W. T.) flouring mills are shipping from two to five car loads per day.

Nez Perce county [illegible] votes, and [illegible] in the recent election.

Some Indians caught at the mouth of the Puyallup river a sturgeon weighing [illegible] pounds.

White river farmers are busy picking apples and digging potatoes. Both crops yield largely.

The Lewis [illegible] quarry, near the mouth of [illegible] Ronde river, in Idaho, will produce 1000 barrels a month next year.

The Puyallup stave factory is running steadily, a large force of men being engaged in supplying the necessary timber.

Fully ten thousand acres of land have been taken up in the [illegible] part of Whatcom county during the past month by actual settlers.

[illegible] cheese factory on White river, W. T., has closed down for a time. They have [illegible] pounds cheese on hand.

Almota, about half way between Riparia and Lewiston, on Snake river, contains several stores, a hotel, livery stable, [illegible] mill, and is the great shipping point for the Palouse country.

The Indians on the Skokomish reservation have had an unusually prosperous year in the matter of crops, hop picking and [illegible] and most of them have money in hand for making their winter comfortable.

The Coos Bay News says that Geo. Guerd has 200 cedar logs in North Slough ready to raft, and 200 more cut in the woods ready to be hauled and put in the boom. The logs are said to be worth about $4000.

The railroad company have been blasting during the week at Parrott's Point, Douglas county, in order to get stone to fill up the embankments between Roseburg and Myrtle Creek that have been giving away during the late heavy rains.

Machine shops 80x150 will be erected in Prescott, W. T., as soon as the lumber can be had. All the necessary machinery for Palouse division shops will be put in the new building. There will also be built a blacksmith shop 20x60, with six forges.

Rich gold mines have been found in the Potlatch country, 40 miles from Lewiston, Idaho, and some excitement created. A quartz mill is now in course of construction at Cedar creek, in the mining region, and dave opeanits are anxiously looked for.

A company has been formed in Victoria to build a steamer designed virtually to make that town the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railroad. She will be fast and fine, and will make tri-weekly trips to Yale until the road is completed to Port Moody, when she will make daily trips there.

The government improvement at Rocky Point, Coos bay, now extends 300 feet from the crib work of 1881. This shows an extension of fifty feet with the money expended up to the present this season, which is a very respectable showing when it is considered that the water is thirty-five feet deep where the improvement is being made.

Myers Bros., living on the Wapato lake, in Yamhill county, Oregon, have nearly all of their beaver dam farm of one hundred acres plowed and ready for the harrow in the spring. They intend sowing most of it to barley. It yielded last year over 100 bushels of barley to the acre. They have also on the farm adjoining a large fish pond well stocked with German carp, furnished with everything necessary for the enterprise.

A. Mackintosh of Seattle, is the owner of 1600 acres of timber land in Mason county, near Oakland, on Skookum bay, the timber on which he intends to make available at an early day by the construction of a railroad and its equipment with engine and cars. His track will have a length of four miles, and will extend almost due south, toward the Chehalis country. It is probable that other gentlemen will be connected with him in the enterprise.

Utsalady has now ten electric lights which illuminate the town. They were lit for the first time up last Tuesday evening. These lights are arranged on the wharf and distributed through the mill so that the loading of vessels with lumber cargoes can at night as well as day, virtually turning night into day for all practical purposes in the immediate vicinity of the lights. The illumination can be seen quite distinctly from the Ladoner [illegible] a distance of about nine miles. The mill started up in full blast on Tuesday, after a few days' suspension.

Fred Williams, who has been herding sheep some time for Jerry Despain about 25 miles from Ritzville, W. T., is missing. On the last day of October, Mr. Despain moved his sheep to another ranch and gave that one up to J. D. Despain and Dug Hurt. Williams stated to herd one of Hurt's bands for a short time, but the first night after Hurt's arrival, failed to come into camp. He had two dogs with him—one of Hurt's and one of Despain's. Hurt's dog came in the fourth night and the other not till the seventh day, when he appeared with his hind feet tied together and his throat bleeding from a deep gash which had been cut in it. Hurt and Despain have hunted for Williams, but without success. Sheep here in this region are 20 to 26 miles apart.

People in Chehalis county are looking forward to Gray's Harbor as a coming great place. The large number of Illinois men who have lately arrived, one a gentleman bringing information, are busy taking up land in the vicinity preparatory to engaging extensively in farming and raising stock. The town of Montesano has a number of new houses now in course of construction, and the entire vicinity is moving forward in a manner never before characteristic of the country. Prominent men are making active preparations to develop an iron mine which lies east of the town. In addition to this the old town of Montesano is improving materially. It is thought that within a year the county will number from 3000 to 6000, and perhaps more. Gray's Harbor has always been considered a fine harbor for ship landing, and it would not be surprising if some of the prominent railroads would reach that point. Some of them are already considering it, as well as a local road that eventually will, in all probability, be built. Good foundation exists for a prominent country, and it is no wonder that immigration is being directed to a considerable extent in that direction.

The Kansas company's new mill at Whatcom, W. T., is fully completed, and as soon as some finishing strokes are put to the planing mill, steady work, both will be started. The mill is of a very large capacity and large production of lumber may be expected. It is reported that the Bellingham bay coal company's property has been sold to parties representing the Northern Pacific railroad. A great many settlers are going into the Nooksack river country and taking up tracts of land, the people coming mostly from Kansas, and who had become tired of that state on account of the repeated failures of crops. The summer just closed has been a very good one for the yield of all the staple agricultural productions, a considerable amount of wheat and oats have been raised. Apples and pears show an increased yield, while peaches and plums have been a very good crop indeed. The cannery at Semiahmoo has canned about 3000 cases of fish, though the cannery building was not completed until August. About 150 Chinamen were employed. At Port Townsend the fishing interest was almost a failure, as there was no great run of fish.

While Messrs F. M. Lewis, John Simpson and James B. Prather were hunting deer, Thursday last, on the south side of Grass mountain, in Benton county the last named had the thumb of his right hand shot away by the accidental discharge of his rifle. He was crossing a log and had placed the breech of his weapon, a Winchester rifle, on the log to aid him in climbing, when the gun slipped, the hammer striking a limb, causing a discharge. Prather's thumb was directly over the muzzle and was shattered. Mr. Gardner, who was standing near, quickly bound the wounded man's arm to stop the flow of blood and the party took him back to camp. The loss of blood caused him to faint several times and some of the party went to camp and brought back some whisky to revive him. He was taken to a house where he remained Thursday night. The following morning he started for Independence for surgical aid, riding late into the night of Friday, and arrived here faint from the loss of blood, and exhausted from his long ride. Drs. Davidson and Smith, of Independence, amputated the injured member, which operation was very painful on account of its swollen condition. At the moment of discharge Gardner felt something strike him on the neck, which subsequently proved to be the blood, flesh and bones of his comrade's thumb. The bullet cut off a portion of Prather's mustache and severed his hat band. Just a moment before the accident, one of the party shot at a deer, the bullet hitting one of the dogs in the back. The dog was still howling when Prather's misfortune occurred. When the party started to camp Frank Lewis carried one gun in his hand and two on his shoulder. He stopped a moment and remarked that he would withdraw the cartridges, which he did. A few minutes afterward, one of the guns on his shoulder being heavier than the other, overbalanced and fell, the hammer striking and discharging the gun in his hand, and the muzzle, at the same moment bringing up directly under his chin. Had the gun been loaded, he would certainly have been killed.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF A. S. ABERNETHY.

NEW TACOMA, W. T., Nov. 18.—This morning about 9 o'clock Hon. A. S. Abernethy was stricken with paralysis. He was alone in Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express office and was found seated in a chair at the desk with his head dropped upon the desk. He is seventy years of age, one of the earliest settlers in the territory and the best beloved citizen in the town. At this time he has rallied and the physicians assure an early recovery.

A Brave and Faithful Guardian of our Homes and Property Rescued from Imminent Peril.

A very popular and well-known member of our police force, who has been for the past twelve years at the Union R. R. depot and Exchange Place in Providence, R. I., gives his unsolicited testimony. Hear him:

"I have been dreadfully troubled with disease of the Kidneys and Liver during the past six months; at times I was so severely afflicted that I was unable to stand on my feet. The lower parts of my legs were very badly swollen; my urinary organs were in a dreadful condition; my blood was in a dreadful state, and I had become so jaundiced and [illegible] that my hands and feet would become cold and benumbed. [illegible] a nightly [illegible] that would keep turning and rolling [illegible] all night, so that I would feel more tired when I got up in the morning than when I went to bed. My condition became so serious that I was obliged to give up work, and for thirty days I was confined to my house. I consulted the best doctors, and took the different medicines they prescribed, but rapidly grew worse and was in a sad condition in every way. When, as a last resort, I called on the [illegible] express office [illegible] party, who told me to try Hunt's Remedy, as he had known of [illegible] benefit received by it. Upon his recommendation I obtained two bottles of the Remedy and commenced taking it as directed, and greatly to my surprise in less than twenty-four hours I found much relief. I [illegible] had no faith in it, therefore, when I found almost immediate relief, even in one day, after taking it, my heart was made glad, and I continued to take the Remedy and continued to improve from day to day. I feel it my duty to [illegible] that I improved steadily all the time I was using, and ever since my [illegible], which was several weeks ago, I have been on duty every day. I feel first-rate, and the swelling of limbs, feet and hands have disappeared and [illegible] the troubles are no more, and I sleep [illegible] and [illegible] have very excellent and [illegible] this Remedy, for it has made a new man of me. I don't know what I should have done without Hunt's Remedy. It is the best medicine that I ever took, and I very gladly recommend it to all who are afflicted with Kidney, Liver disease, or diseases of the urinary organs."

Respectfully,

ISAAC W. [illegible]

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Soreness of the Chest, Gout, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Swellings and Sprains, Burns and Scalds, General Bodily Pains, Tooth, Ear and Headache, Frosted Feet and Ears, and all other Pains and Aches.

No Preparation on earth equals St. Jacobs Oil as a safe, sure, simple and cheap External Remedy. A trial entails but the comparatively trifling outlay of 50 Cents, and every one suffering with pain can have cheap and positive proof of its claims.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is situated next to Albina, and between and fronting on both the extension of Fourth street, East Portland, and the Vancouver Road. All the lots in Blocks 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 are 60x120 feet, with twenty-foot alleys through the blocks. All the other lots are 50x100 feet. The streets are wide and have all been cleared while the lots are high and level and can be very easily cleared.

We now offer for sale for a short time a limited number of these Lots and Blocks at reasonable prices and on easy terms.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is unquestionably the best field for investment and the most desirable place for location now in the market. Its close proximity to the cities of Portland and East Portland, and to the heavy improvement now being carried out by the various companies under the direction of Mr. Villard—the Dry Docks, Elevators, Machine Shops and other works of these companies—its nearness also to the Albina Ferry, together with the proposed Multnomah Railway from L street Ferry, in E. Portland, and from Albina, will make this property very accessible from all parts of these cities. These advantages will necessarily attract a large population, and in the meantime make this the most popular and valuable suburban property in this vicinity while in the near future it must furnish homes for the rapidly increasing population of Albina, and then its value will be at least five times what we now offer it for. The property and full information given to all who may apply to
